Portfolio Objectives

The aim of this model portfolio is to increase in value, over a minimum of 11 years, by investing predominantly in low cost index tracker funds across global markets with a small exposure to active instruments where deemed potentially beneficial. This will be achieved through a combination of capital growth, which is profit on investments held, and income, which is money paid out of investments such as dividends from shares and interest from bonds.

Commentary

The third quarter saw markets supported by resilient global growth, positive corporate earnings and continued investor focus on artificial intelligence and long-term structural themes. Equity markets delivered positive returns across the US, Asia and Emerging Markets, although persistent inflation, higher bond yields and geopolitical uncertainty created periods of volatility. Fixed income markets remained more mixed as expectations for central bank policy continued to shift.

Do Good

Do Good refers to the level of alignment within the portfolio to companies offering solutions to global social and environmental challenges. It is measured according to the 3D Investing methodology, which uses a large data set to individually map lines of revenue of all underlying businesses to environmental and social solutions. The chart below shows the total revenue exposure to the 3D Investing defined solutions of the portfolio versus the Strategic Asset Allocation (SAA), the latter comprising representative index tracking funds and ETFs.

The comparator used reflects the strategic asset class allocation based on the underlying investment exposure of the portfolio to equities and fixed income at the date of data. This information is for illustrative purposes only to provide an indicative comparison to a nonsustainable market equivalent.

Avoid Harm

Avoid Harm refers to the level of exposure to the revenue lines of companies that confer negative contributions to society and the environment. As with Do Good, it is measured according to 3D Investing's proprietary methodology, individually mapping the revenues of underlying companies to activities our analysts consider harmful, or controversial. The chart below shows the total revenue exposure to the 3D Investingdefined controversial activities and harmful impact of the portfolio versus the SAA, the latter comprising representative index tracking funds and ETFs

Lead Change

Lead Change refers to the active role that fund managers play in influencing the companies they invest in. This involves engaging with these companies to encourage improvements in areas like governance, environmental practices, and social responsibility. Our 3D Investing team analyses all rated funds based on their ability to effect positive change through measurable and structured engagements. Fund managers may work independently or collaborate with other investors and advocacy groups to drive positive change. The aim is to ensure that the companies in their portfolios are not only financially strong but also operate in a more sustainable and ethical way. Engagement is key to responsible investing because it helps address longterm risks and opportunities that might not be immediately evident. Through this ongoing dialogue, fund managers can guide companies towards better practices, fostering more sustainable growth over time.
However, meaningful change in large organisations takes time, so these engagements often span years rather than fitting into a single quarter. This is why engagement activities aren't typically reported on a quarterly basis.
