Commentary

The third quarter saw markets continue to navigate persistent inflation, shifting central bank expectations and ongoing geopolitical uncertainty. Economic growth remained resilient, particularly in the US, while enthusiasm around artificial intelligence and corporate earnings supported equity markets. Returns broadened across regions, with the US, Asia and Emerging Markets performing well, although elevated valuations and higher bond yields contributed to periods of volatility. Fixed income markets remained more mixed as investors reassessed the path for interest rates.

The Investment Association (IA) is the trade body that represents the UK investment management industry. It publishes data on UK funds and investment trends and oversees fund classifications, including the widely used IA sector classifications for UK funds. The IA Mixed Investment sectors are a way they group multi-asset funds so investors can compare similar funds based mainly on how much equity a fund is allowed to hold.
